

Examination

The current plan for examination is that it will consist of two parts:

1. A presentation of readings which will be chosen to focus on issues of importance within sociolinguistics and/or bilingualism for each individual grad student. I.e. Each student will make a reading list (to be approved by SB and SD) and then present these readings and their relevance for her respective PhD project to the other course participants. A special meeting of the course has been or will be scheduled for this. The presentation will be examined by both SD and SB.
2. A language technology project, based on the readings for all and the individual readings. The project will be supervised primarily by SD, but will be examined by both SB and SD.
